DON J. MCKINNON ADDRESSES MEETING HERE

An Independent meeting in the interest of Candidates Don McKinnon was held in the Community hall Monday evening. Besides townspeople there were quite a number of farmers and ladies present. R. P. Umbreit who was chairman called the meeting to order.

Mr. Umbreit gave an outline of the Alberta Independent movement, starting with the organizing of the People's League in 1936, the Union or Organization a year later, and finally the present Independent party, which now has 47 candidates in the contest for March 21st. Mr. Umbreit gave a detailed account of the Glendene constituency convention attended by some 300 accredited delegates from the various polling divisions who gathered at Strathmore last September. At this convention Mr. Don McKinnon was selected from amongst four nominees to be the standard bearer for the Independent party in the coming contest. Mr. Umbreit spoke from his experience as councillor of the Blackfoot Municipality on the Alberta government's policies towards rural Albertans. He declared that the government in connection with municipal matters was apparently the intention of the Alberta government if returned to power to break up the municipalities of rural municipality and institute some form of district central control, which he felt was the very danger to the best interests of all rural people.

T. H. Beach spoke briefly on the Alberta administration. He expressed himself quite emphatically that Mr. Aberhart had kept none of his promises that government cost has been far beyond that of any previous administration, that there has been waste and extravagance on a large scale. Mr. Beach in conclusion introduced in a few well chosen words the chief speaker of the evening, Mr. J. McKinnon.

Mr. McKinnon in his half hour address outlined in detail the many liberal promises Aberhart made in 1936. He claimed that not one of these had been kept. He maintained that little or nothing had been done to reduce the cost of the government, that the money has been soaked more than ever to pay the higher costs of provincial administration.

Mr. McKinnon outlined point by point the program of his party. He said he had no promises to make if returned to Edmonton since it is common sense and do his best as a member of the legislature. He would never support magic theories.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

BY H. G. L. STRANGE
Director, Research Department
Baker, Glass Company, Limited

During every war that has been fought in the past inflation of money has taken place. This inflation has resulted in rising prices. In past wars the prices of raw materials and of the commodities which have risen faster than retail prices.

Apparently the same thing is happening in this war, for the price of wheat since September has risen by 30 per cent whereas during the same period the prices of the things farmers have to buy have risen only on the average by 3 per cent. If these advances keep up in anything like the same proportion, the purchasing power of a bushel of wheat and of other farm products will be back to that which they enjoyed in 1913-14 and farmers then would be moderately well off.

At the present moment, however, the purchasing power of a bushel of wheat is only 72 per cent of what it was in 1913-14, so that a further advance of the prices received for the products farmers sell, in comparison with the prices of the things they have to buy for living and production, will be welcome, and still would not be fair and equitable.

You would think that sooner or later the supply of wheat and other goods would run out. But not so, the

GUNNERS FINALLY ELIMINATED IN HOCKEY PLAYOFFS

At Camrose Monday night Gleichen was eliminated from the Morgan Cup won by Camrose club won by a score of 8-4 or 11-4 for the round. Now that the Gleichen hockey fans have got the hockey worry off their chest the fans will return to normal.

In a thrilling encounter Saturday night the Camrose Canadians won the first game from the Gunners 3-1. 500 thrilling and exciting was the game that the crowd of more than 500 were very quiet for moments at a time.

The ice was slow owing to the mild weather. During the afternoon it lay a layer of ice to the depth of several inches was shaved off by a grader hauled by a tractor. The weather turning cold after dark tightened up the ice somewhat. Nevertheless the game was hard to handle and during the latter half of each period the players were battling it for all they were worth.

The first period was the slowest of the three. Both teams met almost constantly. The puck rolled most of the time, but there was no scoring. The second was about even. Gleichen had the puck in Camrose area for the first half and the second half Camrose held the puck in Gleichen area, although there were breakaways on numerous occasions and each time the puck carrier was overruled, or for the puck on the stick. The Gleichen score came from Cam Brown, a home pass from E. Lester and I. proved to be the only goal Gleichen was to make. Camrose came right back and scored a short time later.

The third period was exactly Camrose's. They put on power play and held the puck inside the Gleichen blue line most of the time and rarely did the Gunners get out side of the line. This power play brought results and Camrose made two goals and the game was over. The star of the game, who kicked and staved many of his shots looked like sure counters. The last five minutes showed the Gunners were almost exhausted from the pressure. Two of Gleichen players were ill and really were not in shape to be in the ice. Bob Brown played for the first time this winter, having come out of retirement. He showed he had a lot of hockey left in his system and almost scored on several occasions.

MRS. WILHELMINA LITKE

Mrs. Wilhelmina Litke died in Calgary early Saturday morning at the advanced age of 82 years. Mrs. Litke is the mother of Julius and Harry Litke. Gleichen Funeral services were held in St. Andrew's Church Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock after which interment was made in the local cemetery. Mrs. Litke was born in Germany and with her husband and family came to Canada in 1905, living in Ontario for some time, coming to Gleichen over 30 years ago. Years later she moved to western British Columbia and several years ago returned to Gleichen where she lived until recently when she became ill and was taken to a hospital in Calgary. Mrs. Litke was predeceased by her husband five years ago. She is survived by five sons and two daughters: Bates, Vancouver; Mrs. E. Tate, Calgary; sons Louie of Banman, Man.; Fred of Bashaw; Sam of Hylth, Alta.; and Julius and Harry of Gleichen.

Frank Mishaks that just couldn't happen kept right on proving that they can. And 1939 produced a bumper crop. In many cases, these unusual accidents bring deaths, suffering and heartbreak. Frequently, however, fate appears to be so mischievous by her ingenuity in thinking up new ways to cause trouble that she mercifully spares the victims from more serious consequences than a bad scare or a few broken bones. Frank Mishak was in a hurry to cross the street in Temple, Tex. As he stepped off the curb a car whizzed by and ripped off, of all things his pants. There stood Mr. Mishak on that busy downtown corner in long handed underwear and considerable embarrassment. The driver noticed the Mishak predicament and he was in a hurry to replace his pants. But not so, the

SALVATION ARMY WAR AND HOME SERVICE CAMPAIGN

The bugles are calling the men to the colors. The Salvation Army will be at the forefront, as in the past service, with compassionate zeal to the spiritual, as well as the physical needs of the troops.

The campaign to raise funds will begin next Monday, March 11, the objective being a million dollars.

MIDGET TIGERS AND BLACKFOOT TEAMS STILL IN PLAYDOYNS

A large crowd turned out to see the Midget Tigers win the final game from the Calgary Colts last week. The game went into overtime and Don Reid broke the tie when he rammed home a goal for the locals. Don Farquharson scored the goal for the Colts which tied up the game.

Old Sun Grade defeated Bassano in the first game of their playdown series by a 5-0 score. Owing to poor ice conditions the second game has been postponed.

FROM THE FILES OF GLEICHEN CALL TWENTY YEARS AGO

The flu epidemic is now fairly universal in towns and country, although there are still a number in the country, accurate particulars being impossible to obtain, but it is said to be on the wane.

An accident happened at Arrowwood Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. H. Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall were driving home after spending an evening at the Irwin party when their sled skidded on a grade and upset, and the team ran away. Mrs. Bennett suffered a broken arm, while Mr. Hall was unconscious from a blow on the head. Ira Miller came to the rescue.

Some of the farmers in the Craigston district had the flu, but were almost better before they knew they had it. A little Scotch is a great thing for flu, and it is wonderful how necessary it is as a preventative. The Johnson Brothers of Craigston are buying and selling land as well as farming. They certainly are hustlers from the word go. They are now about 80 acres of alfalfa this coming summer.

John Dufosse was taken to Calgary last week suffering severely from rheumatism.

The rent room over the Royal Bank is expected to be ready for use of the first of next week.

Mrs. Thos. Huckvale arrived last week with her son Keith and is visiting friends here.

J. B. Brenner and wife have left to take up farming on Alden Smith's farm near Shoolieles.

Rev. R. N. Mathewson is arranging a debating team to represent Gleichen in a debate against the Arrowwood Teachers Society to be held there next week.

Lorne Webster reached the Busy Store after an absence of about two months in Ontario crossing into the States stopped a numerous points before reaching California.

J. B. Sammons has returned from Marvella, Wash., where he moved with his family last fall.

James Gibson has returned from the Pacific Coast.

There is credit due our school teachers for the way they have assisted during the flu. While many young girls with little or nothing to do killed away their time the teachers spent whole nights and holidays nursing and helping the sick. They are to be admired for their kindness and their thoughtfulness will not soon be forgotten.

In the last issue of the Eye Opener Bob Edwards is quite puffed because he only knew one minister of the gospel by sight in Gleichen; also because a whisky still was discovered in a G. party church basement.

THE RUM ISSUE

BY FRED JONES

This Column given to News of the Gleichen Branch of the Canadian Legion

On account of war work and other calls on their time and money it is doubtful if the Vinny banquet will be held in Queenstown this spring, but the dance will not be called off and it is hoped that if it is so decided that all who can attend from the Gleichen district will do so and show our members south of the river that we appreciate what they have done in the past.

At the present moment Gleichen has three teams in the finals of different classes of hockey, but by the time this is printed they will either be through the top or out.

We would like to know why two should pass out when only one gets it.

Confession my-man play stockyade rummy and buy in at 98 sometimes make two-three dollar.

Miss Gertrude Desjardins from a smoking stand at the local hospital she says that she will be no excuse for the boys to sit around the house for a few days. With the Foreign Legion nursing staff on the job he was soon fit for action again.

Dave Wilson recently received a Spangled Pit Game cock from the States, so if you think anything of your old chaps, Ray and Leghams better not let him get into Dave's yard.

Sergt. Bert Boos, of Jones' Foreign Legion was accidentally hit by a broken stick while looking over the barracks last week and sported a smoked head lamp for a few days. With the Foreign Legion nursing staff on the job he was soon fit for action again.

The 22nd Battery, has been a great benefit to Gleichen for many years than one. It gave military training to our men although they were not in the line, but they were in the line in the permanent force which they could not have obtained without this training. It was through the personal efforts of Lieut. Col. Lewis that the battery was stationed here and with the aid of men who had served in the last war was kept going in very trying years. Some well intentioned people always opposed the battery but they should not be unduly censored for taking this stand for they honestly thought there would never be another war in our time although war veterans were never optimistic. A soldier is like a fireman when there is no fire he is just a lazy loiterer. Living on the public's expense but when anything happens it is the old cry of "fireman have my child". The boys who do not follow the army considered that what training they had received was no handicap in civilian life. It would surprise some if they could see the list of men who have passed through the battery. Since it was started here their attention cards make quite an imposing list. The battery must bring more than $2,000 to the town every year in rent, water, light, etc.

As well as the training pay, prize money and camp pay which come indirectly to be spent here. The officers and men who kept things going when times were tough feel well repaid for their efforts when they list the men already overseas and in training with the active forces. They feel certain that when the battery finally mobilizes that those who join will be no discredit to the record already made.

It's nearly time to put the fur coat on back and take the money buy a new battery for the old fur coat. Far away fields will soon look green.

IN ANCIENT SPAIN AND GAUL

Right up from the ancient Egyptians who practiced the art of Brewing earlier than 450 B.C., the Greeks and Germans used Beer as a beverage and understood the principles of making. Pliny tells us of the use of beer in Spain under the name of Cella, Celta and Cervisia, and says—

"The natives who inhabited the west of Europe have a beverage made from corn and water. They brew it so well that it will keep good for a long time."

The Meaning Of Freedom

Only Fully Appreciated By Those Who Have Known Slavery

Only those who live in a land where freedom does not exist can appreciate to the full the meaning of freedom. We are today fighting for freedom, the freedom which is assailed by the enemy. But not only for this, but for the exercise of freedom by those who are in the thrall of a country which knows not the great name of freedom.

There has been printed the confession of a German, once an inmate of a German concentration camp, but today enjoying the freedom of liberty to be found on British soil. He makes the strange confession that he glorifies in his work and chafes that he can take no part in it, for he is a helpless cripple. He fought for his Fatherland in the last war. Today he says he sits cursing his own Fatherland, for he has suffered tortures, the depth of which, he writes, no man can probe, unless indeed he has known the horrors of a concentration camp.

Here is the poignant confession of a German who once fought for his Fatherland: "I find today my greatest comfort in praying for the deliverance of those who are still suffering what I have suffered, in praying for the success of the Allied armies, for the saving of my country from an intolerable tyranny."

There is not a doubt that many a German who has not been imbued with the spirit of Nazism feels as the German who has escaped from his native land feels. He speaks of men in the concentration camp trying to get up a Sunday concert but being baffled by storm troopers led by a commandant known for his cold-blooded cruelty. Like sheep at the approach of wolves they broke and ran for their lives. The singers at the concert were, however, caught, and one by one they were strung up and flogged. Later on their bruised bodies were brought in. "I have tried to tell the story," he says, "this German," "without using the language of exaggeration. Do you wonder that I long to be once again in the forefront of the fighting line, but this time on the side of the Country of the Free?"—Leithbridge Herald.

Does Not Prove Anything

Famous Men Who Wear Beards Would Be Brainy Anyway

The Brantford Expositor says: Some years ago an English newspaper conducted, through its columns, an interesting and obviously popular controversy. Somebody started it by asserting that the bearded men of today were but pigmies compared to the intellectual giants of yesterday. Nobody won, of course. But we recall that among other things the pro-Victorians presented, by way of proof of their contentions, an imposing series of photographs of top-notchers of their choice. The striking thing about them was the number of hunk heads in whiskery evidence. There were, for instance, Charles Darwin, Charles Dickens, Lord Salisbury, and many others.

This array may have led some readers to make some connection between beards and brains. If so, it resulted in a supplementary argument on that particular phase of the subject. Then Mussolini, of all people, came into the picture, quite coincidentally, by issuing what almost amounted to an edict against beards. This had little effect. But, for instance, continued to wear one, as proudly as before. And George Bernard Shaw merely snorted at it.

The other day, the question of "to beard or not to beard" was raised again in the United States, where upon one clean-shaver, with devastating effect, pointed out that the most distinguished beards in this country were now found—on the Hollywood extras!

To such low degree has the once-prized article of adornment fallen! The real answer, of course, is that, while Samson's failure to patronize the barber is reputed to have accounted for his strength, beards on the chin do not necessarily indicate brains in the cranial cavity. Fashions in the former come and go, but in the case of the latter you either have them to begin with—or you don't.

Had Adventurous Journey

Imperial Airways Tells Epic Story Of Corsair's Flight

Every day's events are being written into the history record, peace has her victims no less than war, and the story of the flight of the Corsair, as told by Imperial Airways, is worthy of an honorable place in the annals of commercial flying. For resourcefulness and persistence it would be hard to beat.

From the month of March, 1939, to January last the flying boat was endeavoring to complete a journey from Durban to Southampton. Everything went well till the plane got off course over the Belgian coast, where it was forced to land on the River Danube. No one was hurt, neither was there any loss of mail, freight or baggage, but the Corsair was badly holed. The nearest road was two thousand yards away, through dense bush, and a special road had to be hacked through by workers from a gold mining station. Along this rocky trail, the plane, quite out of order, had to be pushed to the beach. It was not until May that the airplane could be beached for repairs, and not before July was it again attempted. "Then came a major disappointment," the account reads. "The Corsair hit a hidden rock still embedded in the river. She was damaged once more—and the waters of the River Danube were falling. Not until October was the Corsair once more afloat. Meanwhile more rocks were blasted and yet another dam was built."

Al's well that ends well. In January Captain Kelly Rogers, who was in command of the flying boat, carried by her the Imperial Airways flight for the British North Atlantic service last August, arrived at the scene to find the Corsair, considering the building next summer.

It was a difficult time for the beat of winds among nations, as the diplomats know to their sorrow. Against the rumors and disagreements of blockade and neutrality, it would surely be a heartening symbol of underlying sympathy and basic unity to have this English-speaking pavilion open to greet its millions through the coming summer.

Yield Was Greater

More Wool Obtained From Fleece Shorn Last Year

Shorn wool production in Canada for 1939 is estimated at 13,615,000 pounds as compared with 12,386,000 pounds in 1938. Although the number of sheep shorn was two per cent. less than in 1938, the average yield per fleece was one-eighth of a pound greater, bringing total production above the 1938 level. Higher average yields were obtained from all provinces except Nova Scotia.

Exports of plants and boards from Canada during the first eleven months of 1939 amounted to 1,063 million feet, a gain of 30 per cent. over the same period of 1938.

An Unusual Plant

The Growing Of Asparagus Is A Long-Time Investment

The growing of asparagus has its benefits to the home garden, says Professor C. B. Raymond of Cornell University. Asparagus, he said, is almost unique as a vegetable in that it can be made to last upwards of 50 years in Cortland, N.Y., a commercial planting has been in production for 25 years and is in excellent condition. Experimental plantings in some states are more than 35 years old.

Another value of asparagus, he pointed out, is that it comes for fresh use before many of the crops have been planted for the season.

"The growing of asparagus, whether for the garden or commercial purposes, is a long-time investment. It takes at least two and sometimes three years before the bed is ready to harvest. It will grow on most any soil, but sandy loams are preferred and good drainage is essential."

"The planting is simpler than years ago because the crowns are set only eight inches deep instead of 12 to 18. This crop responds to liberal fertilizing."

Tribute To Britain

Exhibit At New York Fair Last Year Was Appreciated

For countless Americans who visited New York's World's Fair last summer the original text of Magna Carta was the centre of interest. Exhibited as it was in the British Pavilion, against a background of rare beauty and dignity, the reverberations of its ancient phrases—never more timely or potent for their symbolism of government by law, not dictators, than to-day—were a tonic and deplorable.

It comes with corresponding shock to learn that the British Government is now considering the responsibility of the building next summer.

It was a difficult time for the beat of winds among nations, as the diplomats know to their sorrow. Against the rumors and disagreements of blockade and neutrality, it would surely be a heartening symbol of underlying sympathy and basic unity to have this English-speaking pavilion open to greet its millions through the coming summer.

A Real Miracle Man

Hope Of Nazis As Fuel Creator Is Friedrich Bergius

Lemuel P. Barton, in the New York Sun, says:

A tall, bald, monocled miracle man is Germany's hope in the racial struggle for wartime fuels. With the current news story that the Reich's 1939 production of synthetic gasoline will reach 12,700,000 gallons, Friedrich Bergius is the wizard out of the brothers Grimm to whom Germany always turns in her fairy tales and wars. His are the patents for liquefying and hydrogenating coal and converting it into gasoline. As a huge new plant gets under way at Stettin, he is perhaps the most important single individual in the Reich, as the new fuel is still inadequate, both in quantity and quality, and they expect him to bring it through.

It was Harvard University which tagged him as a modern magician, when he was given an honorary degree at the twelfth-century celebration several years ago. His patents for making synthetic gasoline were among those seized by Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, in the world war. The American chemical industry took them over with avid interest, but were disappointed to find that the Germans had held out the master key in each case.

Dr. Bergius, 57 years old, was also an industrial and keen business man, and in 1931 received the Nobel prize, with Carl Bosch, for his work in liquefying coal. He was an associate and co-worker of the great scientist Haber, who conveniently created a miracle for Germany in the world war, and helped popularize the name, by taking nitrogen out of the air. Haber disintegrated the Nazi dogmas and died in ignominy. Dr. Bergius caught sight nicely and is an eager champion of national socialism, although he did sidestep the plan to produce a pure Aryan, non-Jewish nation. He is always elegantly groomed, quite British in appearance, and is always photographed with his hat on. That is because it is completely impossible to make meat out of sawdust and sulphur, but he hasn't yet developed a hair-restorer.

Outstanding Versatile Author

Tribute Paid Late Lord Tweedsmuir

By Another Writer
Isaac F. Marcossian in his book "Adventures in Interviewing," writes fondly of the great gifts of the late John Buchan (Lord Tweedsmuir). He writes: "When war (the Great War) broke out Buchan offered himself for active service, but was rejected because of over-age. A little thing like this did not deter him. He was one of Kitchener's most active aids in the first British recruiting campaign. After serving as one of the Times correspondents at the front, he joined the Intelligence officer. He was present at every stage of the Battle of the Somme. It is part of his now-famous 'History of the War'—prepared under every conceivable handicap. If you were to analyze the whole of his life, you would find that the outstanding quality was versatility. He has ranged from a tragedy to a comedy, an ideal adventure year like 'Green Mantle.' No living man approaches him in the formula for a ripping 'shocker.' He fairly reads them off."

I once asked Buchan how he felt about his writing, and he replied with the following epigram: "I regard business as my profession, writing as my amusement, and it looks as if some kind of politics is going to be my duty."

Dr. Roger Treadwell, nationally known food chemist, told a civic organization at Redlands, Calif., science has learned that "the calcium properties of spinach are not available to the human system. Only 20 per cent. of its iron is available. But this is not the worst of it. The oxalate radical in spinach precipitates the calcium from other foods and carries it away."

Born to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Halstead, a son, on March 1st.

Fire completely destroyed the pump house at the residence of Campbell Evans, Blackfoot reserve. Volunteer fire fighters saved nearby buildings by shoveling snow on the blaze.

Alex. Dintoul a resident of Eventide Home died Monday at the age of 74. Deceased was born in Wingham, Ont. and had been in the province for 37 years. Before coming to Gleichien he had farmed for many years at Stettin. The funeral took place this afternoon with Salvation Army officials officiating. Interment being made in Eventide Cemetery.

Canadian manufacturers according to D. R. Turnbull, president of their national organization, have a four-fold duty to perform. He said their first duty is to divert to war production all that is required. Next they must continue to manufacture goods needed by the people of Canada, thus providing employment, and taxes. Thirdly they must seek constantly to extend the export of Canadian goods. And finally they must prepare for the period of post war adjustment.

The Legion drive for the Canadian League War Service was very successful. The quota was $100 and the amount collected amounted $142.75. The Legion wishes to thank those who so generously assisted in this worthy cause.

Clement Jacobs of Calgary, age 71, died early Saturday morning at Eventide Home where he had been bilger for the past few months. He was born in Illinois and came to Alberta in 1900. The funeral took place Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Major Sutherland and other Salvation Army officials officiating.

THE WEEK IN EDMONTON

(By Dan E. Campbell)

Formal protest to the federal authorities against the importation of dressed hogs to Alberta by packing houses was lodged this week by farm minister D. B. Mullen. The hog-headless—were imported from U.S.A. One carload came to Edmonton. Others came to various Canadian points, including Ok. wag. There is no shortage of hogs in Alberta. It was pointed out; and the quality of local swine is such as to render unnecessary any importations from out side or foreign countries.

Another campaign against sleeping sickness in horses has been announced by the Alberta agriculture department. Following conferences between farm ministers of the prairie provinces, manufacturers of Chick Vaccine have agreed to supply the preventive at prices which prevailed last year. The vaccine is a cheap insurance it was declared. And since this is a virus disease, no means are available for estimating its extent in any given year. Orders are received by veterinarians, druggists and municipal offices.

First phase of Alberta's 1940 tourist campaign is now in full swing, and with U.S. outdoors magazines carrying attractive ads and radio talks being given at specific points, (the queries are beginning to swell the incoming mail bag in gratifying measure. The 1940 tourist booklet is now in the press. Shortly 55,000 copies will be distributed to travel bureaus, chambers of commerce and trade groups, transportation firms and other organizations in Canada and the United States.

In addition to the tourist book, 30,000 guide folders will give mileage on a point-to-point reckoning, locations of vacation spots and other useful information. An indication of the interest aroused in Alberta, thus far by the campaign is seen in the queries and requests for feature material and pictures received in the provincial travel bureau from magazines in both Canada and the States. Much free publicity is being obtained through these media.

Think for a moment what would happen if, even for one week, everybody in town were to shop elsewhere—either in a neighboring town or by mail! would it not cause consternation, and would not all business houses be very much concerned? They certainly would and with good reason. Some do this regularly and what is the result? Every dollar sent to distant business houses is gone for good so far as that particular district is concerned, and merely serves to build up and maintain some distant town or city. The local business men are robbed of that circulation of money which during its ramblings might help dozens along the way. How about printing? All business houses need more or less printed matter all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how prone many of us are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities (except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember, that the home paper is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to yourself and your local paper to back up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally. The Call 30 years serving Gleichien and adjacent community.

Bring or send the news to this office. We are always glad to have our subscribers send in or bring us news. If each one of list of readers would give us an item each week what a grand local paper we would have! Send in anything but politics and we shall be thankful.

What Will Happen to Farm Crops?

WILL ALBERTA FARMERS LOSE CONTROL OF THE MARKETING OF THEIR COMMODITIES IF THE ABERHART GOVERNMENT IS RETURNED TO POWER?

THAT might well happen! With a Marketing Act, Provincial Bank and Credit Houses in operation, and reinforced by a return to power, Aberhart might force all farmers to accept "Credit house money" for their products.

Dont think "it cannot happen here." The experience of Aberhartism in the past five years shows that most unexpected things can happen.

REMEMBER FARMERS! Only the courts saved you from an annual tax contribution to the Aberhart Government of 7% per cent of ALL YOUR PRODUCTION.
